

NYSP2I's
Eco  Hour

Learn ways to Reduce your Impact at Home

EcoHours are 1 hour web talks on environmental topics in everyday life to help you make more informed choices and reduce your environmental impact.

EcoHours are free and open to the public.

EcoHour talks begin promptly at 12:05pm and end at 12:55pm when scheduled.

Register to attend by emailing us at nysp2i@rit.edu.

Fall 2011 Series Schedule

September 14 — The Hidden Dangers of Personal Care Products

Kate Winnebeck, NYSP2I

What's in your shampoo? Learn about chemicals typically found in personal care products along with resources to help you select environmentally friendly products.

October 18 — Children's Environmental Hazards at Home

Karen Miller, Huntington Breast Cancer Action Coalition, Inc.

Lead, Endocrine Disruptors, Air Pollution, and Pesticides are toxins children and adults are regularly exposed to. Learn how to identify and reduce these environmental health hazards in your home.

November 15 — Toxic Toys: Playing with Danger

Kate Winnebeck, NYSP2I

Join P2I to learn what chemicals have been found in toys, why they're a problem, and how to avoid them.

The Spring Series will be announced in December. Stay tuned!

For more information, visit www.nysp2i.rit.edu, email us at nysp2i@rit.edu, or call us at 585-475-2512.